NOAA's National Coastal Data Development Center (NCDDC) produces the NOAA Extreme Weather Information Sheets (NEWIS). Published each year for the Atlantic hurricane season, NEWIS provides critical information for contacting government officials and monitoring information resources. The laminated and waterproof NEWIS provides an ideal reference in the home, automobile, or boat. NEWIS provides residents with a "one-stop" ready reference containing phone numbers and Web site information residents can use during potentially life-threatening weather emergencies.

NEWIS is available free of charge and is distributed through local NOAA Weather Service Forecast Offices, local emergency management, libraries, state and federal agencies, and not-for-profits. Anyone can request a laminated NEWIS for their business, for their organization, or for personal use.

Since points of contact for various agencies change from year to year, NCDDC annually verifies all contacts, phone numbers, and Web sites listed on NEWIS. NCDDC continues to monitor the information throughout the hurricane season and any updates are added to the online versions available at www.ncddc.noaa.gov/NEWIS.

"Your NEWIS product has proven to be very popular with our residents when our Emergency Management staff is helping them with their disaster preparations. It is very well organized and the lamination is great for using it in the field."

--County Emergency Management Official, Florida

"Everyone loves these sheets! We have tornadoes and lots of bad weather here in Texarkana and these will prove invaluable!"

--US Government Agency Official, Texas

"I think NEWIS is a great product to provide a summary of regional resources all in one package."

--City Official, Florida
